

Pronoun/Antecedent Agreement

A pronoun must agree with its antecedent (The antecedent is the noun that the pronoun is referring to). Check the number and gender of the antecedent to choose the correct pronoun.

Cross out each pronoun that does not agree with its antecedent, and write the correct pronoun above it. Some sentences are correct.

1. Anyone that cannot control their tongue will have few friends.
2. Most great men have learned that he cannot always speak his mind.
3. Everybody should bring their own protractor, compass, and straightedge.
4. Several of the girls can hang their coats in the hall.
5. None of the gentlemen have given his word to remain silent.
6. Arlene and Louise chose a good book to give to her niece.
7. Any student who wishes to ask a question need only to raise his hand.
8. Neither Mr. Goodman nor his two colleagues will present his opinions at the symposium.
9. Nobody turned in their registration card in time to go on the trip.
10. Both Abigail and Shaila contributed their efforts to the publication of The Sentinel.
11. Each of the classes elects their own officers for the school year.
12. Either of these pieces of property will double its value in the next fifteen years.